From vision to viewpoint - deck opens

By VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

"I believe this is the only viewing deck on the North Saskatchewan," Elk Point economic development coordinator Bob Bezpalko said as he welcomed a small but appreciative crowd to the official opening of the river campsite viewing deck on Saturday.

Bezpalko called forward "a lady who is a major contributor to this community," town Coun. Bernice Capjack. "The hours she put into this project are incredible. She led the David Thompson Bicentennial Committee and it was her vision to have this deck here. With the help of the County of St. Paul and the province, she made it a reality."

Capjack, flanked by Minister of Municipal Affairs Ray Danyluk and County of St. Paul Deputy Reeve Glen Ockerman, snipped the ribbon to officially open the spacious deck.

"The deck was planned for the event, to commemorate the coming of the Brigade," Capjack said, "but the plaques will commemorate the history of this river. Through cooperation and teamwork, we have created an attraction for residents and tourists to enjoy."

She credited the efforts of Shamrock Valley Enterprises, Rona Building Supplies, contractor Gary Ockerman, Bezpalko and his son Jerin and town public works superintendent Jay Duffee with getting the deck built in a very short time frame.

"It takes a team to do this," Capjack said.

With a grant from the province, along with support from the County of St. Paul and Town of Elk Point, "we have a great area and room for additions that will give us a reason to come out here again and again."

Ockerman brought greetings from his council and Reeve Robert Bouchard and said the deck and viewing area "are a permanent structure. Ray says that we're all replaceable, but this deck will always be here. It's a real honour for me to work with the county council on projects like this, that are a great asset."

"It's a great viewpoint," Danyluk said. "The only way it could be better is if I could build my house right beside it."

"This viewpoint is what community is all about - getting governments to work together. We are one community, and we have worked together to accomplish what is necessary. This will be enjoyed into the future, and the councillors who worked on it are people who make things happen."

Jamboree to wrap up successful season at FGBH

By VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Fort George and Buckingham House Provincial Historic Site has had a very successful season so far, according to site manager Ross Stromberg. The Forts had seen 2085 people come through the doors up to Aug. 19, with 170 of those attending the July 19 Saskatoon Festival, an increase of 33 over the previous year's event.

"You did an amazing job at the Saskatoon Festival," assistant site manager Nathan Hudson told the Friends of the Forts at last week's meeting. He added that the crafters who set up shop at the festival were happy with the interest they attracted, and that the first-ever Saskatoon bake-off went "really well."

"The celebrity judges were great!" head interpreter Alison Nawrot stated in her written report on the event.

One change suggested for next year is that each participant can only enter one item per category. A total of 16 entries were submitted, which was considered a good turnout for the first year of the contest. It was also suggested that the musical entertainment be held just prior to the bake-off, when the maximum number of visitors might be on hand. The craft demonstration was "very good," and it was suggested that other crafters could be approached to do demonstrations next year.

The need for a "what to do in case of rain" plan was noted, and Stromberg emphasized that the roof over the north patio should be in place next year, and will protect the food preparation and serving area in case of showers.

The Forts' first two events, the Fur Factor Challenge held in conjunction with the visit from the David Thompson Bicentennial Brigade and the Riverland Adventure Challenge two weeks later were both successful and well-attended this year, however attendance at the Fur Factor event has been low in other years, and Friends president Dennis Jasinsky and Riverland Challenge organizer Sheila Thompson suggested that next year, the two events be combined, with Fur Factor events interspersed along the Riverland route. The two were surprised when the idea met with good response from both Friends and Forts staff.

The site's final event of the season, the Forts des Prairies Jamboree, comes on Sunday, Aug. 31, just one day before the site closes for the 2008 season at 6 p.m. on Labour Day.

Ross Daniels congratulated the town on the location for the park along the river and reminded everyone of the river's important role in our history, from the earliest times until the day "we were all here to see the David Thompson voyageurs arrive." In addition, Daniels said, it is a place where "we can see the wildlife and the water birds " in their habitat.

Bezpalco pointed out the ledge where plaques researched by the Elk Point Historical Society will be mounted, alongside a plaque from the town and country commemorating the David Thompson Bicentennial Brigade's visit. He noted that he society "has done endless work" to research and preserve local history.

Society president Vicki Brooker gave a brief overview of the river's history, (see "River part of our history").

Bezpalco said he was privileged to be "part of the project from the get-go" and praised Murry Nielsen and Shamrock Valley Enterprises for the site preparation work, the Porcina family of Rona, who "went well beyond what was expected of them."

"We had the site, we had the material. I called another major community supporter, Gary Ockerman, and when I called, he was here. No is not in his vocabulary."

"When the bills came in and the paperwork, the town office staff handled them, and Jay Duffee and the public works staff all pitched in and helped get everything done."

"This is a community project," Mayor Parrish Tung said. "We cannot do it by ourselves. Our community includes the County of St. Paul, the Town of Elk Point, Frog Lake and Fishing Lake, and this project honours the community members and volunteers past and present with a legacy that lasts on."

The mayor presented a bouquet of roses to Coun. Capjack, and gave County Coun. Tom Kurek and MLA Drobot each a bouquet of "buyout flowers" for their wives, to thank them for sharing their husbands with the community.

"I've been an elected official since 1992, and this is the first time I've gotten roses," Danyluk said.

"Thank you for making a facility like this possible," Danyluk continued. "Premier Stelmach says strong governments are a big ingredient for a great community." He thanked the municipalities, their councils, chamber and volunteers and said, "it's all community."

The official opening included a barbecue lunch, entertainment by the Country Playboys, and a mini-jamboree that featured a number of local entertainers.

"For once, the Minister is taking time to smell the roses," quipped Mayor Parrish Tung as MLA Danyluk sniffed the fragrant blooms. More photos, Page 6.

River a part of our history

By Vicki Brooker

Elk Point Historical Society President

In the beginning, there was the river.

The North Saskatchewan was a main transportation route for the First People even before it became the Trans-Canada Highway of the fur trade, as the Hudson's Bay Company and North West Company came west, building forts along its reaches as they went, Fort George and Buckingham House a few miles east of here, Dog Rump House less than a mile west, as part of a network that eventually reached from sea to sea to sea.

Less than century later, came the settlers, some passing through this area on paddle wheelers such as the Northcote, and even some making their way along the river on rafts. Others came by wagons or sleighs drawn by oxen or horses, or rode horseback, crossing on the winter ice.

One of the earliest arrivals in this area was the man who gave Elk Point its name, a Mr. Higby, originally from Elk Point, South Dakota, who had been working in Vegreville and decided to spend the winter exploring. Legend tells that he spent the winter in a cave along the river not far from here, and returned to Vegreville in the spring to tell the people there about the beauty of the area.

Soon there was a steady influx of settlers, and a ferry was put in place a few miles west of here, at a spot called Hopkins, to help these people cross the river. Eventually, Elk Point got its own ferry, just a short distance from where we stand but it was not until 40 years later, in 1950 that a bridge finally crossed the North Saskatchewan at this point. That bridge was the scene of a fiery crash in July, 1981, that closed the span for weeks while repairs were made. A ferry was installed in the meantime, but it certainly brought home the reality of how dependent this area is on its bridge across the North Saskatchewan. A new bridge finally replaced the narrow span and was officially opened on June 8, 1986.

In 1992, as part of the Fort George and Buckingham House Bicentennial, two dogsleds used the river as their highway as they took part in a 1792-style mail run.

Jamboree at FGBH

There has been some confusion on the starting time of the entertainment, with posters saying 11 a.m. and the press release circulated to area media saying noon, but because 14 acts had already signed up for the show with 10 days remaining to sign up, Hudson felt the 11 a.m. start time would be best. Acts are being limited to a maximum of 15 minutes each, and "if we finish early, we can always run through the lineup again."

Along with country-style music, the event features tours of the interpretive centre and the original fort sites, as well as activities for the youngsters. The Friends will once again be running a food concession for the performers and visitors.

Thanks to our minor ball president and tournament director Lavern Wilson. To the town of Elk Point mayor Parrish Tung and council for all your help before and during the tournament as well as doing the pancake breakfast, to Jay and all the town crew for getting the ground into shape, everything looked great as always. To Tracy Loughran for doing a wonderful job on the programs, to Lana MacDonald for coordinating the concession supplies and workers, to all the concession workers, to the head groundskeepers, Marshall "Little Beaver" Myshaniuk, and his crew Lorn Berg, Fritz Youngmans, and the Meger brothers Les and Howard, to Rick Bilak and all the official scorekeepers and announcers, to coaches Remi Joly and Dwayne Romanovich, all the parents and anyone else I may have missed. Thank you all once again for another successful provincial tournament, #9 this time and counting. And let's not forget all our financial sponsors who keep our ball affordable for all boys and girls.

Painting the theatre black

A spray gun and a scissor lift were essential equipment as the walls and ceiling of the new Allied Arts Centre theatre got a nice coat of basic black paint last week. Work on the theatre is coming along well, and the Allied Arts Society is looking forward to the facility's completion in a few months from now.

THANK YOU

Good timing?

The rumor is circulating that Canadians could go to the polls this fall to elect new federal leaders. With the American federal election coming up on Nov. 4 of this year, one has to wonder if the timing is right.

Theoretically, the countries on both sides of the 49th parallel could end up with brand new governments at almost the same time. This could result in a whole lot of new brooms doing a massive surge of fall cleaning, but it could also leave the governments in an indecisive turmoil of transition or possibly wondering, "should we wait and see what the neighbours are going to do?" This would leave both nations vulnerable to outside influence, and that might not be a good thing at all.

The leaders are clear on their issues, and hopefully the voters will be by the time the elections roll around, but it will undoubtedly take time for whoever is elected to either government to get things geared up and underway. It might be more advantageous to offset the elections by a few months, to ensure that some governmental continuity exists on the North American continent.

The US election dates are set in stone, and come around whether the ruling government or the voters want to go to the polls or not. Our federal election dates are unpredictable and can be set for any month of any year. Let's hope the timing will be right when Canadians are called to the polls.

WAY BACK WHEN....

Golf, ghost town and good times

HERE'S THE NEWS THAT MADE THE HEADLINES OF THE LAKELAND REVIEW AND ELK POINT REVIEW FOR THE WEEK OF AUGUST 26 IN...

1988

Over 130 golfers endured torrential rain at the Fifth Annual Oilmen's Golf Tournament, where Doug Loupa won the Championship Flight by a narrow margin over Ken McCaw. The Department of Agriculture established a part-time office in Elk Point, with district agriculturalists Terry Holmgren and Kirsty Ross and district home economist Monica King planning to visit on a weekly basis.

1993

Metro Papirny won the Championship Flight at the 10th Annual Elk Point Oilmen's Golf Tournament, edging out his closest rivals, Tom Parenteau and Pat Nairn by a single stroke. Results of a year-long-plus review of the Elk Point Agricultural Society's operations were released by Alberta Agriculture, who had undertaken the review after the community expressed concerns in a petition, the results showing "no indication whatever" that funds had been spent on anything but Ag Society activities.

1998

Over two dozen entertainers performed at Fort George and Buckingham House during the Forts des Prairies Jamboree, which was dedicated to the memory of two popular previous performers, cowboy poet John Drobot and country musician Peter Erasmus. Businesses and services needed in Elk Point were the focus of a tentative plan by the chamber of commerce to beef up the business district by conducting an assessment of the community's needs and then advertising them around the province.

2003

Heinsburg was "mighty busy for a ghost town" as vehicles packed both sides of the street from the water tower to the station for the community's 75th anniversary, where many memories were shared and photos of the community in its heyday were unveiled. There was fun for all ages at Forts des Prairies Jamboree, where senior Roy Scott took his annual walk on stilts with the younger set and four-year-old Emily Thompson made her public singing debut on stage.

GUEST COLUMN

Back to school attitudes

It is almost that time when students and teachers are going back to school.

"But I don't want to go to school!" says the punch line of the old joke.

"You have to. You're the teacher."

Now you probably thought some students might be making that comment and you are probably right. Who would have thought it might be some teachers who would make that comment?

So to the teachers that feel this way, Charlotte Babb suggests the following five points.

(1) Do an attitude adjuster. First of all find some small activity each day to remind you that you are the critical factor in every class you teach. Your philosophy of life, your belief in the essential goodness or evil of humanity, your opinion of the value of each of your students is revealed by every gesture, every glance and every word that comes from your mouth. Despite the frustrations that you will encounter, remember that you are the one who can make a difference.

(2) Do a presentation sharpener. Think about your stacks of prepared materials. How can you "tell" less and allow students to explore more? How can you add visual representations, kinesthetic activity, teamwork to the lesson plan to involve those students who just don't get it by hearing about it.

(3) Do a Mind Stretcher. Read something inspirational every day such as Notes from the Universe or other uplifting material. Spend two to five minutes on yourself every day. Once a week, go down to the library and read an article from your professional journals. Look for one idea, one insight, even one funny story that you can use to sharpen your presentations.

(4) Do Stress Escapes. Learn to breathe. It's more than a sigh, more than gasp between barrages of explanation. Expand your belly, fill your lungs, and stop for a second as your blood fills with oxygen. Then slowly let your breath out, clearing the toxins from your blood and your brain. Stop for another second. Keep your eyes open and be aware. Do this at least three times between classes.

(5) Do Mind Drill. At least once a week, clear off your desk. Pack up your papers. Close your books, and take five minutes away from your other responsibilities. Take a few extra deep breaths, long and slow to clear the busy-ness of your mind. Give thanks. What have you to be thankful for? Remember that your task is among the most valuable in all of the world, despite what you may be paid or the recognition you get. Your service to the community is a gift that many cannot accept, knowing that every life that touches yours in a classroom or anywhere else is immeasurably changed. Be aware of your possibility, be humbled by your responsibility, and be grateful for the opportunity. It's going to be a great year.

Now a few words to those students who might say: "But I don't want to go back to school." William James a Harvard professor said, "the greatest discovery of my generation is that human beings can alter their lives by altering their attitude of mind." Don Westcott stated that it is our attitude at the beginning of a task which will determine its outcome. It is our attitude towards life that will determine life's attitude toward us. It is our attitude towards others which will determine their attitude towards us. Your mind can only hold one thought at a time, as there is nothing to be gained by being negative - be positive." Therefore, to those students who aren't looking forward to going back to school, check your attitude. It may make a big difference.

Hopefully for all the "but I don't want to go back to school" people, your feelings will change and you will have a great year. Good luck and best wishes everyone.

Four medals for local seniors at mini-games

By MIKE POMERLEAU
Review Contributor

Athletes from across northeast Alberta journeyed to St. Paul on Aug. 19 to 21 to take part in the 2008 Zone 7 Senior Summer Mini-Games. The games were very well attended, with more than 1,200 seniors competing in 11 different sports, including cribbage, bocce and slo-pitch.

Athletes came from as far away as Fort McMurray and from as close to home as Elk Point and Mallaig. St. Paul also had its own large contingent of seniors participating in the games and their performance at the games had the same shade as China at the Olympic Games in Beijing.

Host St. Paul ran away from the pack in the medal standings and would capture first place overall at the games, winning a total of 18 medals at the games, including 11 gold, three silver and four bronze medals.

Ashmont finished with five medals from the games, two silver and three bronze, while Elk Point got four medals, two gold, a silver and a bronze. Spedden won three medals, a silver and two bronze, while Vilna and Myrnam each captured two medals from the games.

Cold Lake was the next best town at the games in the standings as they finished with four gold medals to take second place after St. Paul. Cold Lake also won second place overall, with a grand total of eight medals.

Bonnyville, Wainwright, Fort McMurray and Willingdon all finished tied for third place with two gold medals each.

Homer Poitras joined the Country Playboys to make music against the tranquil background of the North Saskatchewan River valley.

Mayor Parrish Tung and Coun. Mark Gormley presented roses to Coun. Bernice Capjack, County Coun. Tom Kurek and Minister of Municipal Affairs Ray Danyluk, representatives of the three government bodies who worked together to make the river deck a reality.

Elk Point economic development coordinator Bob Bezpalko (centre) discusses future development ideas with Maryann Price of Alberta's Iron Horse Trail and local contractor and deck builder Gary Ockerman.

A handsome brass plaque on the deck commemorates the visit of the David Thompson Bicentennial Brigade, who were eagerly greeted by a huge crowd at the riverside campground just hours after the final touches were put on the river deck.

Town Coun. Dwayne Yaremkevich serves up a barbecued burger to Ross Daniels of Fishing Lake Métis Settlement, who later spoke to the crowd on the beauty and history of the North Saskatchewan River.

Mayor Parrish Tung, public works superintendent Jay Duffee and his daughter take a look at the historical data and photos gathered by Marvin Bjornstad of the Elk Point Historical Society for plaques which will further commemorate the river's part in area history.

After the Oilmen's comes the hockey school season

doug

Review Sports

Oilmen's golf tournament last weekend. It's a great deal of work for the committee and they always do such an awesome job. Some of us get lost in the bush, but Rollie will pick up our balls on Monday, and some of us have trouble

You know you had a good time when you are looking forward to getting back to work on Monday morning for a rest.

Yes, lots of fun for everyone at the 25th. Annual with the water traps on the seventh, and eighth hole. I think that must be my problem, falling into the water hole, because after 22 years I'm still in the second to last flight. But wasn't that a party!!! And big congratulations to Norman Quinney III for winning the championship flight. Lots and lots of prizes for everyone, but not a single hole-in-one, 128 golfers, eight chances each to win, that's over a 1000 chances to win the big prize, and still not one.

Here's someone who should have been golfing with the boys. How about this? Last Tuesday at the Vernon Golf and Country Club in Vernon B.C. Sue Campbell shot a 150-yard hole-in-one on the fifth hole on an uphill elevated green using a five iron. Right on, Sue!!!

Once the Oilmen's Golf Tourney is over it's seems like no time at all and summer is over, the days get shorter, the kids are going back to school and I guess the only real positive thing is hockey season is just around the corner. I'm sure some of the local kids have already been on the ice at conditioning camps and try outs for the Bonnyville Pontiacs or other junior teams.

August is also a great time for hockey schools; most of our girls' midget team are in Sylvan Lake right now attending a hockey school. Last week one of our bantam players, Brett "the Moose" Ockerman was attending the Oilers' hockey school in St. Albert with players from all over Alberta, Saskatchewan, and B.C. and was fortunate enough to meet a local NHL player who grew up in St. Paul, power forward Kyle Brodziak.

And a big Happy Birthday going out today to another big power forward, Amy Harms.

And now or K.A Campbell quote of the week. "Why does everybody stand up and sing 'Take me out to the ball game' when they're already there?" Last week's answer to "I don't room with him; I room with his suitcase." - Yankee Big Bodie on his mischievous roommate Babe Ruth.

Eager minor hockey players in the 13 to 16 age group from Saskatchewan, Vermilion, Westlock, Hanna, Calgary, St. Albert, Edmonton, Burns Lake B.C., and many other communities taking part in the recent Edmonton Oilers hockey school at St. Albert's Servus Credit Union Place lined up to get autographs from Oiler #51, Kyle Brodziak. Elk Point player Brett Ockerman, in the #81 jersey, and new friend Les Zeise, #64, proudly returned to their communities with the prized autographs on their Oilers' caps.

Up the river without a kayak - paddler drydocked

By VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

You rarely see him without a canoe, kayak or both atop his vehicle, but the Elk Point area's most devoted paddler is short one watercraft these days.

Longtime canoeing instructor and enthusiast Pat Johnson took his kayak for a ride on the North Saskatchewan in late July, and pulled into shore below Fort George and Buckingham House, where he had been trimming brush along the new river path. As he pulled into shore, he noticed that the sign indicating the landing area was not clearly visible from the river and went back up the access trail to get his pruning equipment. When he returned, his kayak was nowhere to be found.

Johnson said he had noticed another boat coming along the river when he pulled into the landing, and wonders if its occupants would have any clue to his kayak's whereabouts.

While he would very much like to have his watercraft back, Johnson's main concern is for anyone else who may be using it while it is on the missing list.

"I'd really hate to have anyone drown themselves with it," he noted, referring to the kayak's habit of unexpectedly turning upside down in the water, a property that was highlighted in lessons he taught in his many canoeing courses.

Summer Reading Program a success

By COURTNEY NAUSS AND LACY WANDLER
Elk Point Municipal Library

The Summer Reading Program this year was a success. We had an average of about 10 kids per day. We encourage you to sign your child up for the program next year. We always have lots of fun and laughs, so keep reading and we'll see you next summer. We appreciated everyone who helped us out this summer.

We also tried something different this year, by adding a Monday evening session, so parents, be sure to mark this on your calendar for next year.

Be sure to check out our great new selection of Junior Fiction and Young Adult books.

Above are the Elementary age group, who have enjoyed all the Summer Reading Program activities during the past two months, with leader Courtney Nauss, at their windup last Thursday. At right, the Preschool group's windup on Wednesday saw Courtney admiring the colorful fans made by Casey, Micah, Samantha and Ryan Urquhart at their final session.

Hundred mile marathon trots forward

By JANICE HUSER
Review Contributor

Plans for a 100 mile and 100 km marathon run to take place within the County of St. Paul next year continue to move forward as organizers work on creating a trail and look for community support.

Although the process has been moving along slowly, about a quarter of the trail is complete, says Anna Leskiw, one of the head organizers of the initiative. Leskiw would like to notify landowners in the areas where the trail is to be created that she and her son will be out scouting the areas, looking for a suitable trail.

"It's beautiful country," says Leskiw of the surrounding area. Runners are expected to leave from the St. Paul Rec Centre, and run toward the Town of Elk Point. Runners participating in the 100 mile run will run beyond Elk Point. The race will take place from May 8 to 10, 2009.

"We've run over some of the trail already, and there are some challenging areas," says Leskiw. The event has been dubbed the Iron Horse Ultra 100, and will be part of the Alberta Ultra Series, which also includes the Canadian Death Race, a 125 km run held near Grande Cache, Alta.

Currently, organizers are looking to farmers in the St. Edouard, Stony Lake, Moose Mountain and possibly the Lac Bellevue area for help as they continue to plot out the trail. Leskiw would like to know if there are any established trails in these areas.

"We just want farmers to understand that it will only be runners, and that there will be two quads following the runners," explains Leskiw. The quads are needed in case a runner is hurt; quad riders will also be picking up any garbage left on the trail.

If there's a gate that runners have to run through, organizers will ensure that there are volunteers at each posts to open and close the gates, says Leskiw. "We will take every precaution needed."

The runners will also be using much of the Iron Horse Trail as part of the run, which is where the name for the run was derived. The first run of the Ultra series in St. Paul will be called the Iron Maiden Run.

Both the Town and County of St. Paul have put their support behind the run, but are waiting for organizers to finalize a trail. The Town of Elk Point has also been very supportive, says Leskiw, and has even offered volunteers.

But the event is not being organized solely for the benefit of the runners.

"We want to bring business to town," says Leskiw, adding that the run will "attract people from across the country."

Registrations for the run are set to begin soon. The website is nearly complete, and registration forms will be available online. Organizers will begin working on creating pamphlets as soon as the website is complete, says Leskiw.

"We're looking for local teams that are willing to participate," she says. Runners will be allowed to make up teams of seven for the 100 mile run, and teams of five for the 100 km run.

Organizers are also looking for any additional volunteers to help with the event.

Although there are a few volunteers already pitching in, Leskiw said anybody who is willing to help is more than welcome to do so.

On the Sunday of the event, a three kilometre senior walk, a five kilometre kids' run and a pet walk will be held. There will be a $25 registration fee, which will mostly cover the cost of a t-shirt.

"Even if we get five registrations, we're going to go ahead with them," says Leskiw.

For more information regarding the marathon run, the walks, or to volunteer with the event, contact Leskiw at Club Bingo Hall at 645-3464.

River part of history

Through the years, and all the changes, the river has continued to flow through this beautiful valley, sometimes high and threatening to wash away the town's water inlet and to flood lowlying property along the banks, sometimes so low that communities downstream fear for their water supply.

But always, the wildlife and birds come to drink along its bank, waterfowl to swim in its waters and make nests along its edges.

This deck is designed that the people of this area and visitors to our community may enjoy the valley's beauty and perhaps glimpse some of nature's creatures in their habitat.

It is an honour for Elk Point Historical Society to be part of this project, and to help commemorate the important role the North Saskatchewan has had in the history of our community.

Lights for lifesaving landings at EPHCC
